

HOOP SKIRTS.
DUPLEX SKIRT.
Latest Fashions
Universally Demand
J. W. BRADLEY'S

(OR DOUBLE SPRING)
SKIRTS.

THEY WILL NOT BEND, OR BREAK, LIKE THE Single Spring, but the Double Spring where three of four cardinal Skirts are THROWN doubtless & economy, with that ELEGANCE & ELEGANCE, which has made the "DUPLEX ELLIPTIC" THE

STANDARD SKIRT
OF THE Fashionable World!

At wholesale by all the leading Jobbers in this City, & by all retailers who sell fine Skirts Wests, Bradley & Carey, both owners of the Patent and exclusive Manufacturers and Officers: No. 97 Chambers and 79 and 81 Broadway, New York.

OPTIONS OF FRIES.

"There is no one thing desired, but capable of enduring any amount of crushing and bearing without the slightest amount of damage.

"Godey's Lady's Book."

"It is the greatest improvement in hoop skirts.—R. T. Daily Times.

"They are not equal in elegance, elasticity, resiliency or economy.—H. F. Dyer Herald.

"They are the most perfect to wear.—N. Y. Evening Post.

"It gives the true dress a style that resents grace in appearance."—Brooks' Peep.

CAUTION.

To guard against imposition be particular to notice that Skirts offered for duplex or standard are not made of the same fabric as the Duplex ELLIPTIC Spring upon the westbound; none others are genuine. Also notice that each hoop is made of braiding which is the same as the rest of their superior strength and flexibility.

See W. Adams.

TERMS OF THE DAILY DEMO-CRAT TO THE COUNTRY.

ONE MONTH $1.00
THREE MONTHS $2.00
SIX MONTHS $3.00
ONE YEAR $6.00

To Our Country Patrons.

Please to register your letters containing remibances, as we hold ourselves responsible for all losses to whom letters are registered. We are not responsible for the mail, should any occurrence letters are registered.

IT is quite evident that the Radical leaders are eager for a muss. They can only live by it. A fight would gratify them. They see the advantages they have, and any coup d'etat or lawlessness will fulfill an excuse for the extreme measures they intend. Confusions and executions would be just to their hands.

If any Southerner feels anxious for a fight, or some sort of muss, he is only anxious for what the Radicals would be able to do. They live only on the expectation of some such opportunity.

They are not so anxious for a coup d'etat or lawlessness, as they are for a fight that can possibly profit by them at the expense of other people.

Will be the policy of this party to provoke resistance by their measures. They will die without civil war; upon it they will live and flourish. They will be dis-pointed, if the country is quiet; if they can't provoke their opponents into some violation of the Constitution and laws.

They are now threatening and blustering.

In hopes of eliciting some response from them, they are eager to fight, while they gather the spoils. It is thought by some, that they will not meet the President.

Nothing would delight them more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but the charges got up by Butler savor too much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would give them an excuse to impeach

him.

They are seeking for reasons now; but
the charges got up by Butler savor too
much of the pettiness. They will not do.

They must try and provoke the

President. Nothing would delight them
more than some indefensible act of his,

that would

